Hauptmann Jury Hears Defence Say Crime "Inside Job"

Ladder at Window Was
"Plant," Says E. J. Reilly
in Final Address to Men and Women Who Will Decide Case; Betty Gow's and Late O. Whately's Names Mentioned

Prosecution Claims Its Case Proved

Associated Press
Flemington, N.J., Feb. 11.—The final defense plea for Bruno Richard Hauptmann to-day turned into utterances of charges against Betty Gow and the dead Ollie Whately and denunciation of the aged Dr. John F. Jenkins Condon.

Condon stands behind something in this case that is unlikely," Reilly said. "The defense is trying to pin the blame on him." He said his defense was that he had charge of kidnapping and murdering Baby Lindbergh.

Dr. Condon was the ransom intermediary for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, father of the slain child. He testified he paid $20,000 to Hauptmann in a Bronx graveyard.

Defense counsel referred to an unnamed confederate of an "inside job."

"Colonel Lindbergh was stabbed in the back by those who worked for him," said Chief Defense Counsel Condon.

Reilly declared a gang kidnapped the baby, with the assistance of the nursemaid, in this connection. He named the nursemaid, Miss Gow, and Ollie Whately, the late Lindbergh's butler.

He charged the nursemaid was the only person aside from the Lindberghs who knew the baby was being held in Hopewell in payment of the crime, and of Ollie Whately, he said he had charge of the dog which failed to bark when the baby was taken.

Miss Johnson

He also brought in the name of "Red" Johnson, the Norwegian sailor friend of Miss Gow. Because Dr. Condon had said he believed "Red" Johnson was innocent, Reilly asked:

"Why should Condon come to the rescue of the only persons in the world that they haven't brought back here if he didn't know him?"

LADDER DECLARED "PLANT."

The booming attorney charged the kidnapper ladder was "laid" and that the baby was "taken" from his nest through the window.

"The person that picked that child out of that crib," he cried—"I give you my solemn word, the inference I draw—knew that child and that child knew that person."

Rally's summation began after the state had used all of its time to prove the defendant had proved "not only beyond a reasonable doubt, but conclusively and overwhelmingly that Hauptmann was guilty of the crime."

NO CRIME HERE

Betty claimed the child would have died if a stranger had picked it up, unless it had been doped.

Pursuing the contention the ladder was a "plant," he said:

"There is nothing in the mind to indicate Hauptmann or anybody else fell in the mud, and there is nothing in the mud that indicates the baby fell in the mud."

BABY'S THUMBPRINT

The attorney was sarcastic about the baby's thumbprint which Betty Gow said she had found a month after the crime, 100 yards from the Lindbergh home.

"This thumbprint, exposed to the elements, is plain to see," said Betty Gow. "On the day it came out of the factory—a little bit bent. I suppose that is to show somebody walked on it. Well, if the defendant were that from the baby's sleeping garment why didn't he tear off two? Why plant things in this case? This case is planted, planned and planned by the defendant."

Mr. Reilly concluded his summation at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon.

START OF TRIAL

When the jury filed into the box for the start of this forenoon's session it came to hear a summary of the evidence the state had piled up against the defendant, and then to listen to Chief Defence Counsel Edward J. Reilly's plea for Hauptmann's acquittal.

MENTAL CASES REPATRIATED

Sixty-five Chinese From B.C.
Mental Homes Sent Back to China

Under an arrangement between the Provincial Government and Chinese authorities, sixty-five Chinese mental cases have been repatriated this week, Hon. G. M. Weir, Provincial Secretary, announced to-day.

The sixty-five Chinese, coming from the Kamloops and Wilkinson Road mental homes, are now aboard the C.P.R. liner Empress of Russia, bound for their homeland. They sailed Saturday.

Negotiations on the subject have been in progress for many months and Chinese authorities firmly committed to the return of their countrymen provided British Columbia would pay the transportation.

Dr. Weir explained that as far as British Columbia was concerned, the arrangement was a good one, both financially and otherwise. Care of patients in mental institutions costs $400 a year each, so the full saving on this account would run about $20,000 to $25,000 a year, depending, of course, on the lifetime of the patients.

Furthermore, the removal of these patients will allow more room for other cases with which the institutions are faced.

This is the second group of Chinese to be repatriated within the last few months. Recently a group of 150 destitute Chinese were sent back to China with their own consent and at the B.C. government's expense. They were relief cases.

German Note to Britain and France on Air Pact and Eastern Locarno Drafted

Canadian Press from Berlin, Feb. 11.—Chancellor Adolf Hitler will accept the Anglo-French proposal for a widespread peace and security scheme in Europe "in principle," and the basis for further negotiations, it was indicated here to-day.

This course was the subject of discussions in Reich Chancery following Hitler's departure Saturday for Berchtesgaden, his Alpine home, and the news Baron Konstantin von Neurath, the Reich Foreign Minister, will have a definite reply to make to London and Paris by Friday of this week.

It seems likely now that the significant document, which is awaiting the wife of Mussolini, will be ready by mid-week. On Thursday night Fritsch Leopold von Hassell, Reich Ambassador in London, and Roland Koester, Reich Ambassador in Paris will be ready to communicate the reply to the governments of Britain and France.

NOT KNOWN TO PUBLIC

It is, of course, premature to make any conjectures on the probable contents of the German note.

Germany and France were invited by Britain and France to join in a defensive air alliance, putting teeth into the Locarno Treaty, and establishment of the proposed

For Second Time Cruiser Rushes To Aid Schooner

ALL SEATS FOR OPENING TAKEN

Reservations All Gone; Public Galleries Open at 1:30

Associated Press
San Francisco, Feb. 11.—An SOS call from the "adventure ship" Seth Parker sent the grey cruiser Australia through a gathering South Sea storm early to-day to the rescue of the battered old schooner.

It was the second time, in twenty-four hours the Australian warship, with the Duke of Gloucester aboard, had steered toward the Parker on a similar errand of mercy. The United States navy also went into action.

The naval radio station at Honolulu said a hasty tug had been ordered to leave the base at 8 a.m. (8:30 a.m. Honolulu time) (9 a.m. Pacific standard time) for the stricken craft.

MYSTERY AND SKEPTICISM

The SOS call eliminated a day of mystery and skepticism concerning the fate of the Parker.

At dawn yesterday the Australian cruiser came alongside to respond to trouble messages that had been coming for three days, only to find the smaller craft in apparently good shape. The cruiser was told its assistance was "no longer needed."

The Australia continued on her way after sending out a skeptical report on the Seth Parker's trouble. The SOS came about fourteen hours later.

Estimating on the basis of the SOS flashes, fourteen hours after the two vessels had parted company, the cruiser should not take longer than ten to twelve hours to re-trace its course.

ROYAL ENTERTAINER

Chief claim to fame of the adventurous schooner is the fact its master, Phillips H. Lord, is a widely known entertainer. He uses the name "Seth Parker" in his presentation.

Lord early to-day wirelessed ships to advise of the end of their radio bands clear.

The point from which the SOS was sent is about 600 miles east of the Samoan Islands and almost as far west of the Society Islands. The Australia was approximately 250 miles away when she turned about.

The Parker reported she was drifting south-easterly, in a message picked up by the Mutual Broadcasting Company in Honolulu.

Only a few hours after the Australia had pulled away, Lord began sending his new troupe of rogues.

GALE LASHES COOK ISLANDS

Wellington, N.Z., Feb. 11.—Through their sole remaining means of communication, the inhabitants of Cook Islands reported to-day that the worst hurricane in years had been raging since Saturday.

The wireless reports said the station itself was menaced by huge waves and was likely to collapse at any moment. The last reports made no mention of fatalities.

The government offices in the islands have been heavily damaged, although no deaths have been reported.

OIL RANGES PUT OUT COAL

They Are Greatest Problem, J. R. Kingham Tells Inquiry; Too Many Docks

MUST COMPLY WITH ORDER

Construction Industry Wage Rule Being Evaded, Board Told

The Board of Industrial Relations was getting ready to-day to check up on employers who are not complying with its minimum wage order in the construction industry.

This was announced by Adam Bell, chairman, following receipt of complaints that some employers were misinterpreting the order and paying skilled craftsmen less than the minimum wage.

"When we passed the order, which fixes 45 cents an hour minimum in certain localities and 40 cents for others, we specified that certain workers should get at least 65 cents," Mr. Bell said. "I don't think any employer is qualified to answer. Mr. Kingham replied: "As far as the dealers are concerned, we could not operate on a smaller margin. But I cannot speak regarding the selling price of the coal to us. I think that if the price were lower we could sell more coal. If our tonnage goes down, the price could reduce our overhead per ton."

"That is just another way of saying there are too many dealers," Mr. Justice Macdonald interjected.

In reply to further questions from Mr. O'Halloran, Mr. Kingham explained that five years ago there were about 150 dealers handling Canadian Collieries coal, one handling Granby Coal, and Cossatot, and three other small-volume dealers handling other coals.

Then the Canadian Collieries did away with their direct agency here and left the field open to any retailers. The result was a flood of new retailers into the business.

OIL RANGE COMPETITION

"What is your opinion as to the greatest problem the oil dealers in Victoria face?" Mr. O'Halloran asked.

"I don't know," Mr. Kingham replied. "I think the greatest problem is that ordinary laborers should get at least 65 cents an hour. Skilled craftsmen would be paid higher, according to their own scales. However, it has been reported in recent years that the ordinary laborers are getting the minimum and skilled men are being paid less, the employers having the idea that the skilled men are not included. This is a direct evasion."

The order, Mr. Bell pointed out, quite plainly applies to "every employee" in the construction industry.

The industry is designed to afford construction, reconstruction, repair, alteration or demolition of any building, railway, tramway, harbor, dock, pier, canal, inland waterway, road, tunnel, bridge, viaduct, sewer, drain, well, telegraph or telephone installation, electrical undertaking, gasworks, waterways or other works of construction as well as the preparation for any such work or structure."

Crisis Comes For British Cabinet

Some Political Correspondents in London Say Test at Hand

By GEORGE HAMILTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Feb. 11.—Eventful day he ahead for the National Government, whose difficulties are increasing. Rumors of an impending crisis multiply while the Conservatives, who furnish roughly 80 per cent of the government's strength in Parliament, bubble with discontent.

Political correspondents are at odds and seven, "A crisis of first-class importance has developed for the National Government during the week-end," writes the political correspondent of the London Daily Mail.

"Rumors of a political crisis discounted," run black headlines in The Times.

Various factors enter the troubled scene. Encouraged by the Wavertree, Liverpool, by-election in which Labor defeated the Conservatives, the government to-day formally authorized its release. Present at Saturday's showing, in addition to Mr. Bennett, were Sir George Perley, Hon. R. J. Manion, Hon. Donald Sutherland, Hon. Grote Stirling, Hon. S. B. Hansen, Hon. Maurice Dupre and the federal capital," he said. "I sincerely hope that no action will be taken by the Parliament of Canada infringing upon the jurisdiction of the provinces under the guise of nationalization.

CONFERENCE COULD DO IT

"A conference of the provinces and the Dominion should be able to redefine jurisdiction upon a basis making it to the advantage of the provinces and the Dominion to go into the conference to consider what course of action should be taken in the best interests of the city and of the bondholders.

"The general tendency has been that of encroachment by the Dominion upon provincial jurisdiction. So far as this province is concerned, our government is not only ready for but will insist that there shall be a conference to redefine jurisdictions. Any other course than that of consultation and mutual concession will be resisted to the limit."

Premier Pattullo's statement, coming to-day, follows the debate in the Ontario house last Friday in which the said to-day by some Democratic leaders Congress to be in store unless he makes even more concessions to the legislative branch of the government.

These same leaders, however, said the President was now listening to advice from them, who long had argued that with the banking crisis over, Congress must have greater freedom in legislation.

But leaders—particularly those in the House—balanced additional things which they termed "mistakes" against the relaxation of executive authority.

Anthony M. Hauck, the youthful prosecutor of Hunterdon County, had been chosen for the task of giving the resume of the state's case which preceded Heilly's summation.

Spectator interest was once more at a high pitch. The courtroom was filled long before commencement, and the galleries were packed with spectators.

Heilly, pink chequered and carefully groomed, strode into court a few minutes after Justice Thurgood Marshall had arrived.

Justice Marshall directed Hauck to proceed.

STATE'S CONTENTION

The state of New Jersey contends it has proved conclusively that Bruno Richard Hauptmann killed the Lindbergh baby and is guilty of murder in the first degree, Hauck said with emphasis.

In a crime of murder, he went on, a proper defense must be proved.

The accused deficit was the child shot on the afternoon of March 1, 1932. Hauck went on, was "normal child. It ate, slept and played as do my children."

The young prosecutor recited the events preceding the disappearance. Baby, Mrs. Charles, came to the Howell home that afternoon, made a little shirt for the baby—treated it for a slight cold, with the aid of its mother, and put it to bed.

The baby, he said, was put to bed and its covers were pinned to the crib mattress.

Hauck then related Miss Gow said she looked at her watch, and she went downstairs and had something to eat.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh were downstairs, and at one time upstairs in their room.

DISCOVERY OF ABDUCTION

"About 10 o'clock Miss Gow went back to see how the baby was. She walked over to the crib and listened to hear her breathing."

"The baby was not there."

He sketched swiftly the apprehension that gripped the Lindbergh household then, when the rooms were searched, how Col. Lindbergh grabbed his wife as he said to his wife:

"Anne, they have stolen our baby." Hauck dropped his voice. "It was only a short time later that baby's body was found near the Mt. Rose body.

Hauck then stated the baby had been stolen forcibly, "yanked from the crib," and refused to the mud prints in the nursery and the footprints and ladder marks in the dirt under the nursery window.

The ladder fitted into the cracks. He said. The ladder connects the windows where Maria and the brother's bed was found nearby.

"All of these things," he declared, "definitely, conclusively and overwhelmingly prove that the baby was taken from its crib by this defendant."

IDENTIFICATION OF REMAINS.

The finding of the body on Mt. Rose Hill three miles away, on May 15, 1932, came next. Hauck went on. The body was identified conclusively by Col. Lindbergh and Mrs. Gow and its little brother, still clinging to the remains, were recognized.

"The defense by its own statement," he asserted, "does not contest the identification of that body."

The death, he recited, had resulted from a skull fracture inflicted when the kidnapper and the child crashed from the breaking ladder to the ground.

"We have shown," Hauck said, "that not a single statement of the Attorney-General in his opening statement has not been proved by the evidence."

MISSING GIRL

He told swiftly of Hauptmann's flight with the slain baby, declaring he was afraid to abandon the child on the Lindbergh estate because he did not want to be apprehended.

Hauptmann fled, Hauck continued, until he came to "the first safe and concealed place away from the Lindbergh estate."

He then hurriedly escaped out the little grave, then hurried off to the Bronx.

"It is the contention of the state that Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. was murdered in the commission of a burglary," he declared.

We have proved the intent to commit robbery, when the baby was yanked from his crib.

We have proved the intent to steal, for he stole the baby's sleeping garment and he stole the baby.

Bruno Richard Hauptmann, who sits in this very court room, did all of this," he shouted.

"We have shown you," he went on, "that Bruno Richard Hauptmann planned this crime for a year. The ransom note proves that."

The state had told of finding a ladder in the nursery window, Hauck continued.

"There is that ladder," he shouted, pointing to the exhibit.

TRACING OF LADDER

The prosecutor, then, recited the details of the trail of the ladder wood by Arthur J. Hancher, wood expert, to Hauptmann's attic from a southern mill.

"We showed you this defendant had a plane," Hauck asserted, "and that very plane was used to plane the wood in the ladder."

Hauck dwelt at length on the similarity of all the ransom notes with Hauptmann's handwriting. We have shown conclusively, the writer of every one of the ransom notes was Bruno Richard Hauptmann," he declared and received the testimony of the eight handwriting experts.

A note told of the sleeping garment, Hauck continued. A ransom note offered to produce it. It was sent to Dr. Condon and Mrs. Lindbergh, Hauck said, and was never identified as the one she had produced.

Hauck told of the old man, Amanda Mackintosh, seeing the man with the ladder in the car on the road to the Lindbergh estate. He referred to Hildingso Alexander, the New York model, who was Hauptmann constitutionality of reforms proposed by Premier Bennett was discussed.

In this debate, according to Ottawa reports, the definite purpose of the federal government was disclosed to put through its programme by resorting to a new expedient.

"It is now proposed to 'restrict' upon the powers of the provinces on the ground that a national interest conflicts with a local one, and the former is paramount," the Canadian Press said.

NEW EXPEDIENT

The new expedient, according to this explanation, is one under which the Federal government can invoke section 133 of the B.N.A. Act, claimed to give the Dominion power to legislate to implement obligations undertaken by treaty.

As the situation was arranged, Hauptmann was led into the room. His face seemed grayer than usual, and his appearance was wretched.

Rally, pink chequered and carefully groomed, strode into court a few minutes after Justice Thurgood Marshall had arrived.

Justice Marshall directed Hauck to proceed.

FARM DEBS
ARE ADJUSTED*Federal Finance Minister
Gives Report on Opera-

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—More than 16,000 farmers have taken the first steps toward making use of the debt adjustment provisions of the Farmers Creditors' Arrangement Act adopted at the last session of Parliament, and at least 1,000 applications have already been offered.

Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes at the week-end made public some statistics of the work of the act up to the present.

With the recent appointment of a provincial board in Prince Edward Island, the Dominion organization was completed and in Ontario and Quebec and the prairie provinces it was already functioning.

At the end of Jan. 2, 250 formal applications had been received at the central office in Ottawa, and it was believed the total applications signed by farmers would exceed 45,000.

In Saskatchewan 150 cases had been appealed to the provincial board of review, forty-nine had been heard and twenty-five had been settled. In nine cases the board declined to formulate a proposal for settlement. There had been 160 appeals to the board in Alberta, and forty-three in Manitoba; they had been 120 appeals and thirty-three heard, in Ontario 120 appeal had been taken and thirty-five heard, and in Quebec 520 appeals and fifty heard.

BRITISH AUTHOR SEEKS SOUL NUMB

Hauptmann's State Due To War Services As a Boy,
Say Ford Madox Ford

B. HENRY WELSHNER

Pennington, N.J., Feb. 11.—The very last look in Hauptmann's face as he sits inourt, the central figure in the most emotional crime of the day, has attracted more than one commentator. There is nothing creative about it. It is not particularly withdrawn. It is empty, unfeeling, as though the man's windows open on nothing. Some have wondered if he is a callousness beyond the average range.

But Ford Madox Ford, noted British author, has explained that look most aptly. He, too, says that Hauptmann seems beyond this world of ours and beyond our hopes. But he gives a reason. The carpenter went to war with the German troops when he was only seventeen. Lots of other boys did, too, especially in those days, but he had stayed to the front with the grim certainty of the horrors that their young eyes beheld. They had seen life briefly, their background of experiences was so small, that the tragedy was more than they could bear, more than they could put aside when peace came at last.

WAR WARPS OUTLOOK

Mr. Ford says that when he heard that Hauptmann was one of the youthful soldiers, and that he had known him personally, he realized he knew at once what separated the man from normal mankind. The British author, who conducted the escort for German prisoners in Flanders in 1917-1918, believes that no boy who there formed his first conception of life could be or ever become quite normal again.

The revelation of that experience is not difficult to understand why Hauptmann's eyes show an inability to feel acutely the stigma that is branding his name. It is almost as though his soul has withdrawn. But it hasn't. It can't feel any more.

IDEALISM WRECKED IN WAR

When we have walked with suffering, crime, baseness, seen them in their stark reality, and comprehended them, there can be no larger tragedy than to see again but those who are those who walk among graves untouched by death. But when once comprehension has come the harm is done. When sensitivity has burned itself out in a spiritual crucifixion the soul cannot respond again, for the recurring pain, though momentary to others, is still of a prime, vaguely felt on a hardened surface, to the one who has left no emotional response.

As a lad of seventeen Hauptmann saw wholesale brutality in a world dedicated in death and pain. He saw it and comprehended it; with frightened young eyes called "eyes as big as pits in corn." He fought his way through that terrified Gehenna which laid waste France and Germany and Belgium only a score of years ago. When the war was done, so was idealism. Burned out. Fleed in the smoke and cannon roar. The boys, who could never be men in spirit, became broken men in body.

And thus we see so easily how the man accused of the heartless kidnapping has not grasped the horror of his plight. It does not affect his innocence or guilt. But it explains his reaction alike to enormity of the crime, if he did commit it, and to the gross accusations cast him if he did not. He has been in Hell before. The present one cannot wound him.

So it is with any great experience in life, which is comprehended with heart and soul as well as body. "The heart once broken is a heart no more." —Edgar A. Vincent Mallay writes in a despatch.

The spirit tortured till it crumbles is never well and complete again.

Vancouver, Feb. 11.—The thinning ranks of Canada's pioneers of the northwest lost another member yesterday with the death in St. Paul's Hospital here of John Alexander McDougal, sixty-six-year-old retired federal government agent of the Northwest Territories.

Born in Ottawa he was educated at Ottawa College. He was a participant in amateur sport circles there for several years, playing for the Ottawa City Football Club. He was also a member of the Ottawa Rowing Club.

He was employed in the Ottawa water works department before leaving in 1896 for the Yukon, where he was appointed collector of customs with headquarters at Dawson in 1906. He returned to Ottawa in 1916 as a customs officer and never returned, was transferred to Fort Smith as government agent, which position he held until his retirement last September, when he came to Vancouver.

He is survived by the widow, three sons, Archibald, Louis and Donald, and a daughter, Mary, all of Vancouver. Archibald J. McDougal of Ottawa is a brother. Burial will be in Vancouver.

Vancouver, Feb. 11.—With heavy fog covering to late this morning, bank robbers and burglars were busy here over the weekend. Three hold-ups were staged. Three prominent teller cages at Argenteuil, and a number of city homes were broken and burglarized. Total value of the loot, cash and merchandise was estimated at $2,000.

One after-dark had fallen on Argenteuil evening and breaking banks began to close the city. Two men entered the Jersey Fruit Store in the 200 block of West Fourth Avenue without warning one of them drew a gun on the Chinese proprietor, Louis Gee Goo, and forced him to open the safe. "I'm going to buy a boat," he said, "and I'll be back." He took $1,000 from the safe and fled. The other hold-up was at the First National Bank, 100 block of Main Street, about distance from the scene of the first hold-up. There were 12 cents in the cash drawer.

PROTEIN BOMBED

A short time later an automobile drove up and parked at the rear of the Ali Mai Fruit store, 700 block of Main Street. Two men loitered about the premises until it was clear of customers and then entered. One had the two Chinese proprietors at gunpoint and a car was held up. The other picked up the cash register, which contained $200 in cash, and carried it to the automobile in the lane. The other bandit, still covering the driver with the gun, backed out and joined his companion, and they drove away. Police found the cash register also badly battered.

A man walked into a little Japanese confectionery store in the 800 block of Columbia Street and said he wanted some matches. When the proprietor turned to get them he found a gun pointed at him and was told not to move. The bandit reached over and opened the till, took $11 and fled.

ANOTHER PAGE BALLOT

FOLLOWING THE GENERAL LINES adopted in Great Britain for the taking of a ballot on peace, The Literary Digest and the Association of College Editors have asked more than 325,000 students in more than one hundred American colleges the following questions:

1. Do you believe that the United States could stay out of another great war?
- (a) If the borders of the United States were invaded, would you bear arms in defence of your country?
- (b) Would you bear arms for the United States in the invasion of the borders of another country?
2. Do you believe that a national policy of an American Navy and air force, second to none, is a sound method of insuring us against being drawn into another great war?
3. Do you advocate government control of armaments and munitions industries?
4. In addition with our historic procedure in drafting men power in time of war, would you advocate the principle of universal conscription of all resources of capital and labor in order to obtain all profits in time of war?
5. Should the United States enter the League of Nations?

The first report shows that about 30,000 ballots from thirty colleges have been returned and the general verdict is that war can be wiped out. Here are the details:

Question 1..... Yes.	20,154	No.	9,751
"	24,291	"	8,408
"	4,892	"	26,008
"	9,931	"	20,031
"	26,750	"	3,948
"	26,706	"	6,012
"	15,751	"	14,072

If there is any surprise in this early counting of a small percentage of the ballots issued it is that there should be a majority in favor of the United States entering the League of Nations.

Critics of this form of obtaining college opinion on the subject of peace and war and kindred phases as related to the United States allude to what they call "the academic fetish for so-called 'liberal thought,' accompanied by the assertive clamour of the polled generation to assume a significant place in the national spotlight." Indeed, a graduate of the United States Naval Academy tells The Digest it is being unpatriotic in presenting the results of what he describes as its "starched poll."

We are told, however, that the vast majority of students, college professors, undergraduate organizations, and, particularly, the college press, are combining enthusiastically and sincerely in a concerted effort to make young American men and women think, form an opinion about the factors involved in wiping out war, and, having formed an opinion, express it in the Peace Ballot.

While the Peace Ballot being taken in Great Britain will not be finished until Easter, the vote in those ballots already analyzed show an overwhelming demand for peace and policies which would go far to insure it. Lord Cecil, who conceived the idea of the ballot, says to some extent this national expression enabled the British government to take its decisive step toward peacefully disposing of the recent, Sarajevo, and, by leading the League of Nations strong support, aided in the settlement of the Balkan imbroglio between Yugoslavia and Hungary.

Whether governments are only moderately financed by these "straw votes" or not, they show that at long last people are beginning to realize the pressure they can bring to bear on those who represent them in their legislatures.

THE ONLY WAY

THOSE WHO SUGGEST THAT LOW TARIFFS will not do for Mr. King that high tariffs have failed to do for Mr. Bennett are merely giving voice to generalities which can be answered with little difficulty. We recognize that although the tariff naturally is not everything, it is an incontrovertible fact that tariff and trade policy is of paramount importance to Canada at the present time—the gravest of the country's problems, that of unemployment, depends for its solution for the most part on the expansion of Canada's external markets.

The Dominion thrives economically or languishes economically according to the amount of buying and selling the does with the rest of the nations of the world. She has an agricultural and an industrial surplus and that surplus is a greater part of it should be going out to the markets of the world in exchange for commodities we do not produce, or produce only in quantities insufficient for our needs. Hence the most practical way to stimulate the currents of trade would be by removing or modifying considerably the impediments created since the present government at Ottawa took office in 1930.

One economic commentator points out that slight concessions under the very high general tariff which Canada has made are no way to increase trade, for example, with the United States, France, Italy, Japan, or any other foreign country. On the other hand, he argues, a much better way to increase the Dominion's external trade is to revise the Ottawa agreements, lowering the duties on British goods coming in under the preference, and at the same time sharply reducing the inordinate general and intermediate tariff rates against foreign countries.

After all, this would involve no loss of any present advantage that Canada has in the British market; but it would enable her to make bilateral treaties with foreign countries which would give them greater inducement to purchase Canadian products—by offering less obstruction to the entry of their goods into Canada. Of course, protected manufacturing interests would be up in arms at the prospect of this course of action. The fact remains now the law that until Canada sells the products of her farms, forests, mines and fisheries abroad in greater quantities, economic recovery is bound to be a slow process.

SHARING THE PICTURE

JUST AS WE THINK WE ARE BEGINNING to get back a little nearer to normal conditions—conditions as they were before the world went on its great financial jamboree—somebody comes along with a pot of black paint and smears the picture.

This time it is that interesting fellow who is known to the world as Wilbur Glenn Voliva of Zips City, and he still believes the world is flat. His predictions for 1935, however, include earthquakes, cyclones, floods, tidal waves, volcanic eruptions, together with violent changes in religious, political, social and financial conditions.

Some, and perhaps all, of these may come to pass. Nature is fairly regular in her manifestations to man that when she feels like going on the rampage she can jerk him out of his complacent and superior moods as she will—and there is nothing he can do about it. Mr. Voliva would have been more informative if he had told us where and when Nature's convulsions would take place, and what form the violence in connection with changes in religious, political, social and financial conditions would take.

Since Wilbur still thinks the world is flat, perhaps all of these things will take place on the other side of the terrestrial pancake.

NOT YET

EVENTUALLY CANADA WILL BE IN a position once again to invite new settlers to come out to this Dominion and make their contribution to its further development. Until many more thousands of Canadians have gone back to gainful employment, however, there will be no room for newcomers who are likely to become public charges. Those who come of their own accord, fit themselves in as an opportunity presents itself, but who are able to look after themselves if things do not turn out as well as they would like will always be welcome. But the day of organized movements will come only with healthy economic recovery.

Reference was made in the House of Commons at Ottawa the other day to the report of an inter-departmental committee of the British House suggesting methods to make possible resumption of overseas migration. The Canadian government has been supplied with a copy of this report from Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Dominion Secretary, with a message asking for any observations the Ottawa government might wish to make in regard to it.

Any new scheme, for attracting new settlers at the proper time ought to be based on the principle of selling Canada as a place for a man to make a home as the first essential. In the past there has been too much of the balance-sheet idea. It is natural, of course, for everybody to want to make more than is required merely to make ends meet. But the experiences of the depression from which we are gradually emerging should provide an object lesson to be remembered and heeded.

THE "FASCINATION" OF WAR

PROFESSOR GILBERT MURRAY, speaking at a session arranged recently under the auspices of the League of Nations Union Education Committee in Great Britain, criticized books which are popular with boys twenty years after the Great War started. It was quite right he said that there should be a lot of adventure and bloodshed in boys' books, but he complained because so many of such books were based on the glory of war and "the killing of foreigners—plenty of foreigners, big, furious, and frightfully cunning foreigners, with all the odds in their favor."

The speaker asked his audience to contemplate the histories and textbooks and see how extraordinary right and brave each nation thinks itself, how many victories it has to its credit, and how singularly few defeats. He then proceeded:

"There is some sort of psychological problem, and I think it is perhaps worth while suggesting what is the explanation of this extraordinary fascination which war and the psychology of war exercises on the minds of men."

"I believe it is that peace and co-operation belong to the civilized life, the life of law and ordered society and self-control and second thoughts, and war belongs to the region of primordial images and primordial impulses."

"It will need years and years, and probably generations and generations, of energetic change before we can produce in the average man the sort of mental atmosphere in which the Kellogg Pact is safe."

The Kellogg Pact and all pacts designed to make the settlement of international disputes an orderly procedure will be effective when the peoples of the world make their governments pursue policies which are not provocative of discord. But one of the shortest cuts to a removal of the war spirit would be the prohibition of the manufacture of arms for private profit.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAYROOSEVELT'S WAR PROFITS BILL

The Chicago Tribune

War profits arouse much popular resentment. In war or peace the munitions maker rates with the money-lending shark, and when the better disposed people pitch into him the incidental consequences which may prove to be the main consequences get little consideration. The title of the bill should be: "An act to establish abolition in the United States."

SANTA CLAUS FOR SOMEBODY

The Boston Christian Science Monitor

Why do these twenty-six new million-dollar incomes reported by the United States Bureau of Internal Revenue glitter without looking at all like gold? These incomes indicate a better outlook for profit-making. Prospects of profits encourage enterprise on the part of capital. Enterprise puts men to work. Yet the most that can be said of the forty-six incomes which made up last year's million-dollar class is that they measure not actual or permanent recovery but only the possibility of temporary upswing.

The Times urges its correspondents to restrict their contributions to 500 words. Henceforth it positively will not print communications which exceed that length.

These notes must be plainly written on one side of the paper only, and must be accompanied by the names and addresses of the writers, not necessarily for publication but as a guarantee of genuineness.

Letters will not be accepted for publication. If they are sent in, no attempt will be made to read them.

Letters containing extensive personal reflections will not be printed.

These rules, which hereafter will be carried out absolutely, are designed as much for the protection of our readers as for that of The Times.

NO GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP

To the Editor:—In your issue of February 7, Mr. Hutchinson, in the last sentence of his contribution, writes: "Until the Central Bank of Canada is owned by the people, any talk of democracy in the real affairs of this country is a 'merry jest'."

He may be right. On the other hand, judging by past records, the management of the C.N.R., for instance, with its monstrous debt, and in short, all outlandish concerns under government management, have been most successful.

How can a man of Mr. Hutchinson's experience even suggest government ownership for this bank?

It politics is kept out of it, it will probably be comparatively harmless, if not, it will doubtless be a "jest," but it will be something but "merry!"

SMALL TOWN REACTIONS

To the Editor:—One would gather from the irrefutable letters from Calgarians criticizing Mr. Hutchinson's article on their city in his "Loose Ends" column that nothing, ever, ever had appeared in a Calgary newspaper reflecting in any way upon Victoria. About three years ago a report of an interview with Lieut.-Col. Wolley, manager of the division in the Calgary Herald, in which Victoria was described as unsanitary, with its vacant lots full of garbage, flowers destroyed by vandals and the gutters of its streets full of refuse. The colonel even threatened to spend his winter elsewhere unless conditions were changed. I think that an editorial poking fun at his unfounded strictures appeared in The Victoria Daily Times, but I do not think any irate Victorian took the trouble to vent his wrath in the columns of The Herald. Calgary is a small city and its people are 100 cent Americans, but they really ought to develop a sense of humor.

Mr. Hutchinson's comments in The Times were not nearly as objectionable as Col. Wolley-Dod's in The Herald, for the latter's indictment of this city's sanitary conditions was intended to be taken seriously. After all, Calgary is not a small town.

RELIEF CAMP IS OIL RANGES SCENE OF RIOT PUT OUT COAL

Twelve Arrested at Deep Bay, Between Powell River and Vancouver

Vancouver, Feb. 10.—Twelve men were arrested last night by provincial police as alleged instigators in a riot at the Deep Bay government relief camp when bombing was burned, during which some 2000 persons were given food.

Deep Bay is on the mainland between here and Powell River.

According to the reports, some of the men at the camp, apparently giving no reason for their actions, had broken out of the camp buildings and escaped in it piles, which were set on fire. Dishes were buried from the buildings and broken and doors and windows were smashed. A camp foreman was reported to have been assaulted, but the extent of his injuries was not learned.

Provincial police were called from Powell River and made the arrests.

coal ships from the colonies to the Victoria Gas Company. John Macmillan, manager, said his bunkers have and other such bulk contracts.

Mr. Langton said that the company sold the coal to the Victoria dealers at $7.25 a long ton of 2,240 tons f.o.b. snow and railway car at the mines.

Questioned by Mr. O'Halloran on the participation of the subsidiary in the oil range business, Mr. Langton said he did not know whether the company was receiving a commission on all the sales of coal in Victoria. He testified he was not a director of the company, that he did not know who the directors of the company were and that he did not know the nature of the agreement between the sales company and its parent, the Canadian Collieries.

SUBSIDIARY COMPANY

Mr. O'Halloran presented records that the Canadian Collieries has a revenue of $100,000 a month.

Mr. Langton testified he knew nothing about the prices at which coal on large contracts was sold. The spread allowed Victoria dealers to-day over Nanaimo-Wellington lump was the difference between $6.67 and $10.75 a ton of 2,000 pounds.

Questioned about rebating practices, Mr. Langton declared that they were given by the coal company to certain consumers to combat the introduction of oil.

"In a good many cases we give a rebate, a customer puts in an automatic order," Mr. Langton went on. "We give him a reduced price on his coal to retain his trade."

Mr. Langton said he could give no facts about the rebates, as they were only necessary as far as he was concerned, all going through the head office in Vancouver.

Questioned about the sales promotion work of his company, Mr. Langton said it had launched quite a bit of advertising in newspapers and on billboards.

"We sell to any dealer who approaches us if his credit is good and we generally ask him not to cut prices," Mr. Langton replied to other questions.

TELLS OF ALBERTA SALES

A. M. Kirk, head of the Kirk Coal Company, spoke to the commissioners of the "Oil and Gas of Vancouver Island coal has improved decidedly."

He said that as far as dealers here were concerned they needed the $2.50 a-ton spread and that was not enough now because sales were dropping so low.

Mr. Kirk reported his firm's sales by tonnage as follows: 1934, 6,445 tons; 1933, 5,209 tons; 1932, 10,100 tons; 1931, 7,475 tons; including 679 Alberta; 1930, 8,707 tons; including 1,314 Alberta; 1929, 7,925 tons; including 1,159 Alberta; 1928, 8,508 tons; including 1,150 Alberta.

Asked why sales of Alberta coal had been dropping, Mr. Kirk said it was due to the fact that the Canadian Coal Council was proposing to cut berths, was advertising it and had cut the price.

The inquiry will continue here for most of this week.

RENDER "SAMSON" ON TWO NIGHTS

Metropolitan United Church
Choir to Give This Work;
Soloists Announced

Soloists for the oratorio "Samson," which will be presented in Metropolitan United Church by the choir on February 26 and March 1, have been selected.

Lindley Jones, tenor, will sing the title role. Thelma Jones, soprano, will take the part of Delilah and Nora Jones, contralto, that of Micah. T. Harry Johns and Fred Wright, basses, are cast in the roles of Manoah and Harapha, respectively, and Katherine Stokes, soprano, will take the part of a Philistine woman, and Myrtle Moore, soprano, a Philistine girl.

All of these soloists are popular with local audiences and with the support of a chorus of one hundred voices which has been rehearsing steadily for many weeks under Frank Tupman, an excellent performance of "Samson" is to be expected.

Edward Peacock will be at the console of the Metropolitan organ and Maguire Daniels will be the assisting pianist.

The Metropolitan choir is offering this oratorio as Victoria's contribution to the world-wide celebration of the two-hundred and fiftieth anniversary of Samson's birth and are confident that the presentation will receive wide support.

SUPPER MEETING

The Young People's Union sponsored the second supper meeting for the executives of all the Y.P. societies. It was held in the Sunday School room of the Fairfield United Church. The supper was served by the Women's Auxiliary of that church.

After supper Ernie Fullerton and Jimmy Hartnett entertained with their piano accordion.

Dr. Henry extended a welcome to the guests.

The societies represented were: First United, West, Centennial, Esquimalt, Fairview, St. Aidan's, Sidney, Oak Bay, Victoria, and the Y.P. Club.

John D. McDonald spoke to the young people and laid before them a very worthwhile challenge.

The regular monthly meeting of the union was held after the banquet with the president, Donald McCain, in the chair.

Committees were arranged to look after the work of the society.

Donald McCain will attend the meeting of the British Columbia executive for Young People's work in Vancouver this month.

Miss Prendergast was in charge of the arrangements for the banquet.

The committee for the radio broadcast was Eric Gill, Gordon Corrie and Don McCain.

SILKEN SPINDLES

by Gene Le Goodwin

"I didn't mean what I said the other night," Steve's voice was self-consciously. "I shouldn't have said it. You've got a right to talk to anyone you want to. All the right in the world. I just wanted you to know that's the way I feel about it."

Gale eyes were lowered. "I said things I shouldn't have too," she told him. "Steve—I wish we could go on being friends again."

"Do you mean that?"

"Then it's all over," Steve said again. "I'm afraid about what last night means. I've been nearly crazy, Gale. It's the first time we've quarreled and it'll be the last. I won't be such a fool again. Look—I brought you something."

He held out a package, a long white box. Gale took it, looking up in surprise. She untied the cord and drew off the cover. There were still some rounds inside the box, lying flat.

"Oh, Steve!" she exclaimed. "you shouldn't."

"I thought you'd like them."

"I do like them—they're lovely, Steve. But you shouldn't have done that; you shouldn't have been so extra generous."

She lifted the roses and held them to her arms. The perfume of the flowers filled the room and their warm color seemed to bring a flush to the girl's cheeks.

"They're not much," Steve said. "Not as pretty as you are, Gale. Not nearly. You ought to have flowers all the time. I wish I could buy them for you."

"We're on the two. You said we should be friends again, Gale. Does that mean I still have a chance? That maybe some day?"

She raised her eyes and met his now the roses. "Let's leave things as they have been for a while, Steve," she said. "Let's just be friends again for a while. Then—"

A young man sat facing her. He was a tall young man with thin eyebrows and hair feathered back. He was strong enough but it was clear that the young man was not pleased about something.

He said, "But look, Vick—" and then stopped, seeing Brian.

"Vick was on her feet at once. "Brian," she exclaimed, hurrying forward. "How sweet of you! I'd begun to think you'd buried yourself in that suit. Come and sit down—"

In the course of his remarks he paid a tribute to an Englishman who sent out from the Old Country the equipment for the first manual training centres in the city, and bore the cost of their maintenance during the first three years of operation.

Musical items were provided by Miss Mona Bradford who sang "Fiddler on the Roof," "Lullaby Song," and Ernest Butterworth, baritone, in "Matthias" and "The Star." The accompanist was Miss Barbara Fraser.

And there was no slender figure wearing a short skirt and leather jacket skating toward him. There was no one in sight.

Brian told himself again. "She isn't coming."

This time when he reached the boat house he took off his skates and walked down the road to the car. He got inside and turned the car about and started for home. Half way there he changed his mind and made a turn left. His mother was having some friends in, he remembered, and he didn't want to see them. He could drive to the school and assured him that he would always be a welcome visitor at school functions.

A. A. Campbell, principal of South Park School, said that he had been approached in that position in the year in which Mr. Jay was first elected chairman of the board. He gave some interesting reminiscences of his association with the guest of the evening and declared Mr. Jay had always been animated by a sincere regard for the youth of the city. On behalf of the association Mr. Campbell then presented Mr. Jay with a gold watch.

REILLY RILED BY ALLEGED TAMPERING

In the little town of Brandon, Suffolk, England, two Englishmen work at their ancient trade of flintknapping, an industry which has been carried on at Brandon since the stone age. They are the last two flintknappers—the men who make flints for the oldtype of flintlock guns which are used abroad by natives—to be found in England. Here is shown one of them at work on the flints; more than 800,000 of which have been shipped to China and West Africa.

"Back to the mines" is not the punishment for Miss Maie Muir Muir that the term implies for most people. A state has imposed a year ago has been lifted, and she is shown here, back on the job near Cadiz, G., working at the trade she followed for more than twenty years. "We happen to make enough money to pay off the debt on our house and get off the relief rolls," declares Ohio's only woman coal miner. "Housekeeping will be only a sideline for me from now on."

WOULD TAKE HITLER'S JOB

ISOLATES VITAMIN B "MUSH" MARCH PUTS THE BRAKES ON

Ending twenty-five years of intensive research, Robert B. Wilson, reported to the American Chemical Society his discovery of the chemical structure of Vitamin B, which is expected to aid in the treatment of nervous cases.

Here is a fine action picture of "Mush" March, diminutive forward on the Chicago Black Hawks squad. He is one of the smoothest wing players in the National Hockey League.

A twenty-one-year-old handsome blond youth, labeled the nation's master counterfeiter, is in Toledo, O., jail and a ring which passed bogus bills which may total millions is shattered, federal agents say, following their seizure of the plant shown above. Clarence Alfred Brown, inset left, a lithographer, is held as the "brain" of the culprits, and his father, one brother, and two others also were arrested. The ring, agents said, was turning out excellent imitations of genuine bills and had been trailed for two years.

ALMOST A FORCED LANDING

BRITAIN PLANS ONE-HOUR AIR SERVICE TO PARIS

To demonstrate the possibility of a "flying hotel" Douglas air liner on an ultra-speed passenger service between England and Le Bourget Aerodrome, Anthony Fokker, Dutch aircraft designer, flew one of these speedy machines over the proposed air route. If the British representatives decide to establish a new speedy service between England and France they will purchase four of the above planes, which is the same type as the machine which finished second in the London-Melbourne Air Race. When this picture was taken the Air Line's Douglas biplane was about to land on the transportation flight.

It looked for a split second as though Col. Charles A. Lindbergh would make a swift and sudden forced landing, with never a chance to bail out, but Lindy righted himself just in time to avoid a nasty plunge. He is shown as he stepped on the icy pavement outside the Roosevelt courthouse when he hurried to his car to evade cameras—but he did not quite make them.

"RUDDIGORE" MAY BE GIVEN HERE

Popular Gilbert and Sullivan Opera to be Presented by University of B.C.

Special to The Times
University of B.C. Point Grey Feb. 11—Russell Twining, of Victoria, active in student speaking and dramatic activities, has won one of the contests for the affirmative when a U.B.C. debating team engaged the University of Manitoba team this week. The U.B.C. debaters lost. The subject was "Resolved that Canada can never be a nation as long as it is divided into provinces."

Gilbert and Sullivan's "Ruddigore," which the U.B.C. Musical Society will stage at the university for four days commencing February 11, may be brought to Victoria. To date, there is no move in that direction. Last year the society was surprisingly successful with "The Mikado" and it will no doubt make "Ruddigore" fine entertainment. In the event of a Victoria visit, interest would be added by the presence of several Victoria students in the cast.

Basketball is one of the best attended sports at the University of British Columbia. Students apparently are still remembering the Vancouver Playdowns. The previous last year when the team that just round them out in these playdowns went on to win the Canadian championship. This year many observers are betting that Vanier will be the squad which will win the Victoria Ribbons for the provincial crown.

The present standing in the Vancouver senior league for fourteen games is Vanier, 16 points; Adams, 10 points; Province, 14 points; V.A.C. 10 points; Willoughby, M. Hardie, and Henderson. All the basketball teams are probably the most popular campus sports heroes.

Exhibits scientific and spectacular were on display on the campus today when the University Engineers' Model Club held its annual "Open House." Arrangements and demonstrations were entirely in the hands of students. Special parking facilities were planned for handling the

NEW STREAMLINING

Pontiac makes its debut for 1935 with a new low-priced Six and an improved Straight Eight. An example of the Six is shown here. It is a 5-passenger Sedan with trunk. Both the Pontiac Six and the Pontiac Eight are presenting new streamlined designs. Many improvements and refinements are found in both lines. The solid-steel Turret-Top body by Fisher is one of the big features and the equipment includes hydraulic brakes. Inset is shown a rear quarter view of the Pontiac coach, revealing the beautiful streamline effect.

Insurance policy ever written in Canada nearly eighty-eight years ago is now held by the department of this public service. During the five years of the depression nearly $122,000,000 has been paid out to its policy holders (more than half its total assets); and during this period has fortified its assets to the extent of $40,000,000 present assets now exceeding $48,000,000.

In 1934, which many look on as the worst year of the depression, the opening of a branch in Victoria showed its capability by "getting out" the issue of one of the large downtown newspapers. The latest issue of the student publication, however, editorially critical of the University Council for failing to stop the students taking a particular issue of the downtown paper brought out by the students. There is a student rule forbidding sale of papers and magazines on the campus, but the "pioneers" (U.B.C. newspapermen) apparently feel this rule might have been overlooked so as to give the student body a chance to view the scribes' brain-child.

company paid out over $22,750,000, or an average of over $70,000 daily. Evidence of the public faith in Canada Life is shown in that in 1934, and notwithstanding hard times, over $104,500,000,000 of business in force and during 1934, regarded by many as the climax year of the depression, the company as a whole disbursed nearly $2,000,000,000, of which nearly $2,000,000,000 was paid to life insurance policy holders. This latter figure is to some extent indicative of the extent to which life insurance is helping us to build estates to yield retirement income to us in our later years in addition to protection of our families.

New York Rangers Move Into Second Place Tie With Boston

THE SPORTS MIRROR

Murdoch Scores Two Counters To Defeat Chicago

"Iron Man" of Hockey Stars in 2 to 1 Win; Boston Loses to Amerks

Montreal Maroons Turn Back Detroit

By A. E. FULFORD, Canadian Press Staff Writer

It seems more likely than ever now that New York Rangers will clinch the most amazing comeback hockey has seen in years playing off with Toronto, probably—for the National League title.

A 2 to 1 victory over Chicago Black Hawks yesterday evening, while Boston was taking a 7 to 5 lacing from New York Americans, brought Lester Patrick's team into a tie with Bruins for second place in the American division, just two points behind Black Hawks, and with one game less played.

Playing as they are with Chicago doing little to improve their chances, Rangers at the moment look like the best bet to finish on top, winning the right to clash with the international winner for the N.H.L. title.

How their fortunes have improved in so short a stretch is clearly brought out in a comparison of the standings then with today's On January 11 the New Yorkers had won only seven games, lost eleven, and tied two. Now their record reads: Won seventeen, lost twelve, tied four.

ONLY CHANGE

Rangers move up was the only change in the standings resulting from the five week-end games. Montreal Maroons, the only team playing twice, lost 4 to 2 to Toronto Saturday night and then took a 2 to 1 decision in their home game yesterday evening. Canadians kept their one-point lead over Americans in the international division's third spot by beating St. Louis 4 to 2 at Montreal Saturday.

Iron man Murray Murdoch, who has not been too prominent in the last few weeks, picture himself in it with a bang yesterday evening at Chicago. He scored both the New York goals, one in each of the first two periods.

Norman Locking thrilled the 17,600 spectators with the hope of a Hawk comeback in the third, but his goal was the only one a determined Chicago attack could force past Dave Kerr, Ranger netminder.

There were two goals Chicago men scored that were disallowed. An off-side spied one by Art Coulter in the first and Bill Kendall lost one in the second when the officials called the play back.

THREE GOALS DISALLOWED

Much the same thing happened at Detroit where three goals were declared void by Ode Cleghorn and A. Smith. Eddie Goodfellow beat Carl Smith, the first spied one a penalty shot, but it was ruled he had dragged the puck out of the circle before shooting.

Larry Jackson, Toronto Maple Leafs' brilliant winger, got back second piece in the National Hockey League's big seven-to-day. He scored a goal and an assist Saturday night to give him the place Frank Boucher of New York Rangers usurped for a minute until the end.

BIG SEVEN OF MAJOR HOCKEY

Harvey Jackson, Toronto Maple Leafs' brilliant winger, got back second piece in the National Hockey League's big seven-to-day. He scored a goal and an assist Saturday night to give him the place Frank Boucher of New York Rangers usurped for a minute until the end.

Gus Marker scored the first goal that counted in the second period and Eddie Wiseman's counter in the third put the visitors over the top.

Harry Cooper is one of the straightest golfers. Only his temperament is against him. In the last few years Cooper has cut down on his long backswing.

"Whiffy" Cox is a splendid player. He is one of the leading wood club and long-iron players particularly formidable on a long course.

When Tommy Armour makes up his mind to turn in really outstanding golf, he is capable of playing it, but he cannot seem to bear down all the time.

Tommy is a marked punch hitter with irons, frequently hitting fairways by gouging sizeable slices of sand.

While all of the more accomplished golfers adhere to certain fundamentals, each has individual peculiarities. The secret of success in the royal and amateur game, as in every line of competition, is developing natural form and making it fit the game.

GOALS GALORE

Lorne Carr, Americans, and Paul Hayes, Boston, were top scorers in the wide-open affair at the Garden, each getting two goals. Rabbit McVeigh, Otoe Redskins, Red Nutting, Sweeney Schriner and Alex Smith each got one for Americans and Dick Clapper, Babe Seibert and Neil Stevens notched the rest for Boston.

A packed rink saw a thrilling game when Maroons pelted Toronto. After the visitors had taken a goal in the third minute that Maroons protested, claiming the puck had not crossed the goal line, Bob Gracie tied it up before the period ended.

Flash Hollett put the Torontopians ahead in the second with a surprise shot and got the clincher an open-to-end rush and Red Horner made it fairly safe for Leafs, five minutes later.

Harvey Jackson, who had given Horner the pass for his goal, got one himself in the third with Gracie adding another. His rebound in and Carr and Shields, the same combination that got the winning goal at Detroit yesterday evening, scored Maroons' second counter.

Nanaimo, Gunners Win Rugby Games

Coal City Squad Downs Duncan, 11 to 0; Fifth Brigade Goes Into Cowichan Cup Final With 13 to 0 Verdict Over Navy

A boasting squad of rugged Nanaimo rugby players won the up-island play-off in the Cowichan Cup knockout series yesterday, defeating Duncan 11 to 0 at the Coal City. As the result of their verdict, the miners will meet the Garrison here this week to decide which squad will play the Gunners for the trophy. The game up-island was fairly rugged. Condition and the aggressive tactics of the Nanaimo forwards figured largely in their victory.

Fifth Brigade, however, playing far below their usual standard, entered the final of the Cowichan Cup knockout series Saturday when they turned back a weakened Navy squad 13 to 0 at Macdonald Park in a game that saw little smart team play from start to finish.

unable to bring into play the same amazing defensive record achieved in their Bremner Cup victories over the Gunners, the sailors, minus nine regulars, turned in a spelling game that was anything but pretty to watch. They fought hard, but there was little of the spectacular in their efforts.

The Fifth Brigade was also below par. Paul Ross, one of the key men on the Gunners' attack, was badly hampered with his injured leg, and could not call on his speed when it was needed. Arnie Phillips, playing a year off the left wing and ran straight several times when he might have gained.

There was lots of neck tackling, plenty of offside plays and an abundance of loose kicking.

GUNNERS' ATTACK

Sipe went down on the Gunners' first attack after the Navy had cleared Peden's offensive punt, but Putman got the ball away.

Pleming, who had dummied the scrum, but held too long to spoil a good opportunity to score. Loose kicking was mousing up the Fifth's attack.

Peden missed a free kick from the sidelines as the Gunners continued to exert pressure.

Stewart gained nicely for the Gunners on a blind side run but went down under a neck tackle close to the Navy line.

After a midfield scrum, Stewart kicked the ball over for the Gunners, only to have Wurtele race through and touch down for a safety kick.

OPEN SCORING

Twenty-four minutes from the start, Pleming took the ball thirty-five yards and opened a sweet twelve-field run which carried him over the line for the Gunners' first try. Peden's kick was wide.

Pedron, Navy half, was playing offside consistently on the scrum, but was finally checked up and the Gunners gained another kick that went wide.

At that time there was no further score.

The artillerymen exerted pressure after the interval and stayed in the Navy ground until Peden got over a lovely field goal twenty-five yards out six minutes from the resumption of play to boost the Gunners' total to three runs but was held off by the Hibbert, Navy fullback.

From a scrum close in, Wally Sipe took the ball and ran through for another try which came four minutes after the field goal. McInnes missed his kick.

Putman and Hibbert were clearing nicely for the sailors as the Gunners kept up the attack and Nixon was doing some good blocking.

FINAL SCORE

After Nixon's lack of speed had bunged up several Fifth Brigade backfield attempts, Cowichan finally got away on a run to the corner and we were into the Tag seven minutes after the preceding try. The kick again failed and the score stood 13 to 6.

Pleming, Phillips and Gaunt combined on a nice run to the Navy twenty-yard line where Gaunt was dropped.

Copland stopped a good rush when Briggs broke through from his own ground on a kick and run attack.

HELD TOO LONG

The Gunners can play back and Gaunt spotted a good chance by holding too long.

Just before the whistle sounded, Pleming got through on a smart run but was stopped at the line.

C. Ley relieved and the team lined up.

Fifth Brigade, McInnes, Phillips, Rose, Fleming, Copland, Simpson, Stipe, Peden, Dowell, Grey, Butler, deBlaquiere, Gaunt, Stewart and Ferguson.

Navy—Wurtele, Smith, Kushner, Bentfield, Putman, Ferguson, Sevall, Minns, Evans, Sullivan, Massingham, Nelson, Mundie, and Sinclair. Reserve, Galey.

INTERMISSIONS

Leading intermediate rugby fifteens, Wanderers Blues and Victoria College, were still deadlocked in top berth in the second half standings, as they continued their undefeated campaigns in search of the final championship points. The winning point by default, the Wanderers' Blues defeated the Garrison fifteen 8 to 2 in an exhibition game at Work Point Barracks Saturday afternoon, while the Canadian Scottish weaknesses by shortage of players went down to defeat at the hands of the College 10 to 0 at the Victoria High school grounds. At Oak Bay Park in another league match, Fifth Brigade fifteen trounced the Wanderers' Blues 11 to 0.

Taking the field with only thirteen men, the Canadian Scottish fought stubbornly, but were down to ten men just at the hands of the Garrison. The students were in their best form, and had not been beaten by the strong defence put up by the Garrison, the score would have been much greater. Two successes were made in the first half by Painter and Thomas of the Blue and gold team. Both attempts to convert failed.

Completing a nice three-quarter run early in the second half Lionel Cox booted the students home up 8 to 0. The visitors, after a short back-and-forth, minutes later, Pig Nation pushed the score up another three

THORSEN STARS

The Fifth Brigade showing a vast improvement over previous games, came through to win over the Oak Bay Wanderers' White 11 to 0. The White fought hard to prevent a shutout, but were unable to penetrate the Gunners' defense. The Fifth opened their attack later in the first stanza when "Cappy" Thorson received the ball near the Whiteman line and went over for a try. The attempt to convert failed.

Lorne Ritchie, stalwart, Fifth three-quarter, boosted his team up to 6 to 0, when he got over to complete a fine three-quarter run early in the second half. He failed to convert his own try. The extra points were made a few minutes later when Thorson went over for his second try, which was converted by Ritchie. J. James refuted.

The Wanderers' Blues won over the Garrison fifteen by default, in the scheduled league fixture at Work Point Barracks. The Tommies then played an exhibition game against the Oak Bay squad and defeated them 8 to 3. The Blues put a number of new centers on the field and made a number of substitutions. Drummond and Brown went over for the Blues, with McConnon converting Drummond's try. A number of the Blue Bay squad suffered minor injuries during the match.

Montreal—

Securities Point Lower In Doubtful New York Session

Canadian Press
New York, Feb. 11.—The stock market barely went through the motions today and prices generally moved a few points up or down, but nothing was lacking. The upturn was attributed partly to delay in the gold clause decisions.

The close was rather heavy. Transfers approximated $200,000 shares.

In the Canadian list Montreal picked a major fraction, while Industrial, Standard Oil, Dominion Stores, Stores were each a shade lower. On the curb, Hiram Walker ruled steady, but Lake Shore was down. Dominion Government improved a trifle. Canadian dollars were 1-2¢ of a cent lower at 50.88¢.

The gold problem was not the only one confronting the financial markets.
The steel strike, which had been estimated current mill operations at 50.8 per cent of capacity, against 52.8 in the previous week. The foreign situation was also somewhat confusing.

Gains of 1 to 2 or more points were registered by the preference shares of American Can, Commonwealth American and Foreign Power and National Department Stores. Issues of Standard Oil of New Jersey were about even to slightly in arrears.

Dow Jones averages closed today as follows:

Thirty Industrials—102.45, off
0.34.

Twenty-nials—92.74, off 0.14.

Twenty Utilities—95.82, up 0.02.

Forty bonds—94.95, up 0.02.

MINE SHARES DRIFT LOWER

Canadian Press

Toronto, Feb. 11.—Mining shares drifted down slowly with the waning of bullish enthusiasm to-day, all traces of last week's two-day gain having disappeared.

Tech-Hughes lost four at 2.55.
Dome weakened 75 cents. Wright-Hargreaves 10. Hollinger 45 and Bre-ton 8. Lake Shore and McIntyre held unchanged.

Pickle Crow, McKenzie, God's Lake and Central Patricia were sold quite actively for losses of 5 to 8 cents.

Penny Golds were shaded along with the others with losses of 1 to 2 cents.

Gils were slow and base metals showed little action. Noranda closed 50 cents down.

Mrs.

I SHOULD THINK YOU'D WANT TO DO SOMETHING EVENING AFTER EVENING BEIDES LIE ON A COUCH AND READ

DON'T YOU REALIZE WHAT A DEADLY BUT YOU'RE GETTING INTO?

ID NEVER THINK OF DOING SUCH A THING AS LIE DOWN DURING THE DAY

WELL—WHY IN BLAZES DON'T YOU THINK OF IT?

ARE YOU SURE YOU DON'T MIND? I REALLY FEEL GUILTY—WHEN YOU WERE SO COMFORTABLE

FORGET IT—KNEW YOU WANTED TO GET THERE

HUMPH-R-H-H-H!

CAN'T BEAT A GOOD COUCH AND A GOOD BOOK

BE STILL MY HEART

I WISH SHE WOULD BE STILL.

LOOK AT THAT POOR OLD GENTLEMAN CRYIN'.

FORGIVE ME—DOES MAGGIE'S SINGING AFFECT YOU THAT WAY?

OHNO! I JUST GOT A COLD IN THE HEAD!

Apes

SLOWLY TARZAN DESCRIBED JANE'S LETTER. IT WAS A FRIEND IN AMERICA. IN IT SHE NARRATED THEIR LONG EXPERIENCES. HOW HER FATHER HAD SOME INFORMATION OF AN OLD SPANISH GOLD-MINING SETTLEMENT OF BARRETT. HOW THEY HAD FOUND IT, AND HOW IT WAS BROUGHT INTO THE UNITED STATES.

TARZAN SAT IN A LEAVEN STUDY AFTER READING THE LETTER. HE WOULDN'T UNDERSTAND MUCH OF THE NEW AND WONDERFUL THINGS HE READ IN IT. HE WROTE JANE'S LETTER ON A LEAVEN SHEET OF PAPER. THE MORNING AFTER, HE READ HER LETTER AGAIN. HE READ IT IN THE FOREST, IN THE SPOT FROM WHICH IT HAD DISAPPEARED.

A COOL, CLEAN SKIN CAME UP OVER HIS EYES AS HE READ THE PRINTED WORDS. BUT NO DAYS PASSED WITHOUT WHICH HE HAD FORGOTTEN IT. HE PRINTED A LETTER FOR HER. "TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: I TELL YOU, KNOW WHAT TARZAN OF THE APES LOVES YOU." SUDDENLY HIS HEART BEAT FASTER.

A MONTH PREVIOUSLY TARZAN VISITED THE FOREST. FOR AN INSTANT HE STARED INTENSELY. THEN FROM THE FOREST CAME THE APPEALING VOICE OF A WOMAN, AND TARZAN OF THE APES, DROPPING HIS FIRST LOVE LETTER UPON THE GROUND, SHOUTED A PANTHER INTO THE FOREST AND LEFT WITH THEM.

The Gumps

WELL—THE TRANSFORMATION IS ABOUT TO BEGIN—THE POOR LITTLE BUTTERFLY IS CRAWLING OUT OF HER COCOON AT LAST—

A NEW LACE TEA GOWN—A SMART CROWN TWISTED SPORT SUIT—AND A CHARTREUSE CHIFFON DINNER DRESS—THAT'S A PRETTY GOOD START—

NOW WHEN THAT TAFFETA TRIMMED IN CANARY ORGANZA COMES OUT WITH THE HAT TO MATCH, AND THE ERMININE WRAP FOR OPERA, I'LL BE JUST ABOUT SET FOR A GRAND FINALE—RIGHT INTO THE VERY MIST OF THE SOCIAL SWIM TOMORROW NIGHT—

AND WHEN I PLUNGE—WHAT A SPLASH I'LL MAKE! FROM NOW ON WE MAKE UP FOR LOST TIME—AND IF ANY GUMP THINKS THIS FAMILY IS GOING INTO SOCIAL ECLIPSE, JUST BECAUSE HE'S THIN—HE'S CRAZY!

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY

At the monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Children's Aid Society, reports of committees were read and adopted. At the end of January there were twenty-five children "in care," thirty-five of them being wards and seven non-wards. In addition there were forty-three children not in care but under supervision in their own homes. The total expenses for the month were $622.15.

It was announced that, up to date, the special drive for the benevolent work during 1934 had brought in $10,000.00. Attention was called to statements appearing in the press to the effect that a school was being conducted in the society's camp premises at Cadboro Bay. It was reported that investigation had been made and that this was not the case. The camp was being used for educational purposes only, and it was agreed that under no circumstances would the organization of a school there be permitted, except by arrangement with the school trustees.

The names of forty-seven new subscribers were added to the list of members of the society. This being the last meeting of the year, at present constituted, the president invited members to complete their term of office now and these vacancies will be filled by election at the annual general meeting on Thursday, February 24, in the city hall p.m.

SANICHI C.C.V. CLUB

The West Four Spanish C.C.V. Club held their regular card party in the Marigold Hall on Friday evening. There was a good attendance and the evening was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The prizes were won by the following: Leader, first, Mrs. Clinton; second, Mr. (substituting); third, Mr. H. Miz. Gentleman; fourth, Mr. Youell; second, J. Alexander; third, A. F. Morgan.

Refreshments were served by Messrs. Shingling, Smith, Hooper, Youell, Mitchell and Hall.

Next Friday the game will be in the form of a St. Valentine's party when there will be a special prize in addition to the usual, for which final arrangements will be made at the regular business meeting of the club to be held in the Marigold Hall on Wednesday, February 13, when all members are requested to attend as important business will be dealt with.

No Damage Suffered By Princess Alice

Ship Fleeted at Seattle on High Tide Yesterday Morning and Returns to Victoria for Survey; Back on Run This Afternoon

Undamaged after spending Saturday night ashore in Seattle harbor, the coast-steamer Princess Alice returned her run to Seattle this afternoon, sailing from Victoria at 4:30 o'clock. Surveyors and divers looked over the ship for possible damage and reported this morning that the ship sustained no harm. She was aground on a sandy bottom.

The Princess Alice was steaming into Seattle harbor during a dense fog Saturday evening when she got off the pier. Captain William Thompson, wireless operator, called harbor authorities for assistance and two tugs were dispatched.

The ship struck shortly before high tide, when the water registered nine feet. It was 10:30 o'clock and at 10 o'clock the tugboats of Goliath and Barge Company left for the scene of the accident. Nineteen of the Alice's passengers were taken off by the Goliath and landed in Seattle. Eight others elected to spend the night aboard the stranded vessel.

At high tide yesterday morning at 7:30 a.m. the Princess Alice was floated. She went to Seattle for a short time and then steamed back to Victoria, arriving here yesterday afternoon.

The St. Princess Charlotte, which arrived here from Seattle early Saturday morning, took the 4:30 o'clock sailing back to the Puget Sound port. The Princess Elizabeth took the 2:15 o'clock from Victoria to Vancouver yesterday and the Princess Joan arrived from Vancouver in the afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in place of the Princess Alice. So far, only the ships were damaged by their regular runs.

Passengers aboard the Princess Alice when she struck Saturday evening were at first mildly alarmed, but were soon reassured. They all stated they enjoyed the experience of being shipwrecked and removed to a tender during the dense fog.
